the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office for National Statistics 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people, and the need to ensure that the health care system is able to meet the needs of older people. This has led to a number of initiatives, including the development of the National Health Service (NHS) for Older People (NHS 2000), the development of the National Health Service (NHS) for Older People (NHS 2000), and the development of the National Health Service (NHS) for Older People (NHS 2000).

The NHS for Older People (NHS 2000) is a national strategy for older people, which sets out the vision for the NHS for older people, and the actions that need to be taken to achieve this vision.
